Tony Mandarich Presents—Changing Vices to Virtues

It only took 3 years for former NFL player, Tony Mandarich to go from “The Incredible Bulk” to “The Incredible Bust” He started on a path that most would consider a dream, but bad decision making that was influenced by steroids, painkillers, and alcohol took him off course. After hitting rock bottom, he had two options, sober up or death. Tony chose to get back on track, make a return to the NFL, and pursue his other passions as an entrepreneur.

Day One Workshops

Officer Jermaine Galloway (Tall Cop)—High in Plain Sight—Current Alcohol and Drug Trends

This session will test your knowledge in regards to current local Wyoming and national alcohol, drug and violence trends. The session will cover a spectrum of alcohol and drug clothing, drug logos, drug trends, drug terms, alcoholic energy drinks, alcoholic based clothing, music, underage drinking, alcohol terms, hidden compartments, weapon concealment, and other popular culture items. Whether you work, live, or frequent rural areas or more densely populated areas this session will be relevant to you. This training is unique, in that it provides over 100 visual aids that are popular in the alcohol and drug world for attendees to hold and become familiar with, along with photos and information on national locations who are promoting underage drinking, violence and substance abuse.

Break Out Sessions 1 and 2

1. Amy Miles, Advanced Chemist—Designer Drugs; aka Chasing Our Tails

Current drug trends show an increase in designer drug abuse over the last several years. During this session we will discuss the current and most abused designer drugs, effects on human performance, analytical challenges and legislative issues.

2. Twyla Wilson, LCSW —Helping Women Recover: Creating Services For Women

Over the past thirty years our knowledge of women’s lives has increased dramatically, and we have added significantly to our understanding of the treatment needs of chemically dependent women. Based on Dr. Covington’s treatment curricula Helping Women Recover: A Program for Treating Addiction, the workshop offers a comprehensive treatment model that integrates theories of addiction, women’s psychological development, and trauma. Designed to give counselors, clinicians, recovering women, and others a basic understanding of the current knowledge related to addiction, the workshop focuses primarily on women’s recovery. The workshop emphasizes the key issues of self, relationships, sexuality, spirituality, and the therapeutic techniques for dealing with these issues.

3. Eric Nation / Stacey Read—Core DEC Training—Identifying, Protecting, and Serving Drug Endangered Children

This course will provide a foundation of knowledge about the risks faced by drug endangered children, strategies for developing a collaborative approach to reducing the risk of harm, and specific case examples of how to intervene more effectively to save drug endangered children. The course will consist of classroom lectures, compelling videos of drug raids and interviews of drug offenders and their children, and interactive discussions of actual drug cases involving children.

Learning Objectives: 1. Identify the risks and actual dangers that illegal drug activities present to children. 2. Describe the long-term needs of drug endangered children. 3. Outline the broad concepts of a collaborative response. 4. Explain the advantages presented by a collaborative response in sustaining DEC efforts and engendering broad social change.

4. Jermaine Galloway (TallCop)—High in Plain Sight—Continued from General Presentation

This session will cover common drug related clothing lines, hidden compartments in clothing, drug terms, drug logos and popular alcohol based items and terms.

5. Sandra Erickson, DCI (Law Enforcement Only)—Introduction to Gangs

Gangs vs. Groups—Gang Mentality—Gang Development—Common Gang Identifiers—What Communities Do to Combat Gangs
